

Dear Friend,

You are Invited to LitWorld's Global Celebration of Reading and the Power of Words. . .

- . . . to change worlds.
- . . . to build communities.
- . . . to save lives.

LitWorld's Executive Director Pam Allyn reading aloud to children in Nairobi, Kenya.

We are proud to present LitWorld's First Annual World Read Aloud Day, March 3, 2010. Join celebrities, athletes, statesmen, community leaders and others to honor this day.

Visit litworld.org/wrad to find out how you can create a unique read aloud experience for yourself, your family or your community. Then click Yes! All children have the right to read, and tell your friends, family and colleagues to do the same before or on March 3.

Every act counts. Organize or participate in an event at your home, in your school, library, community center or hospital. Call or video chat with someone who needs to hear a story. Write a poem, a song, a blog post, or a status message about the power of words. Make a video of your WRAD Read Aloud and share it with the world. One voice can change the world, but a million can transform it.

The inspirational Dr. Spock, who promoted the value of reading aloud for health, comfort and joy.

We look forward to celebrating this special day with you! Email us at wrad@litworld.org with questions or to join our mailing list.

Best wishes,
Pam Allyn
& the LitWorld Team

Send a clear message to our world's leaders:

Words Change Worlds

